PREFACE

This publication contains statistical data relating to economic areas covering money, banking, credit and investment, public finance, foreign exchange transactions; balance of payments and external debt; production, construction, and public utilities; and prices. The series presented in this report may be used as indicators of the impact of policies and measures adopted by the Monetary Board and in support of the analysis of the economic and financial developments discussed in the Annual Report text.

The statistical series presented in this issue are not intended to duplicate certain statistical data compiled and published by various source agencies.

Sources — Statistics are derived from government bureaus, and offices, financial institutions, and private firms, through direct communication with the entities concerned, from published statistical reports and bulletins, and from the different departments of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

Notes — To better understand the series, notes are provided for each of the following sections:
